

Rummaging Ransacker Rumbled...Nearly

Morag the Meddlesome reporting for The Grimm Gazette December 2020

Breaking news- last night saw a mysterious character sneak into the magical realm's most beloved retail store, Grimm & Co. As of yet, no one has been identified as the intruder, but some key witnesses have stepped forward.

Rumour has it that Grimm & Co are on the look-out for a team of experts to work on the case, although details have been kept strictly under wraps. Read the interview in full, or use the QR code to access the Grimm Gazette's news site at the bottom of the page.

Morag the Meddlesome, 'We're here at the Grimm & Co Apothecary to the magical, where there has been a mysterious intruder overnight. Usually the one stop shop for both magical and mortal beings, the shop has had to close due to unprecedented levels of ransacking, up-turment and page rifling. I'm here with apothecary manager Anita, to get the full story.'

Anita Globslime, Apothecary Manager, 'It's just awful. Today we had planned to restock all the wands and package a large order of goblin mucus for our clients in the Boggart community. I flew in this morning and was greeted with carnage. There are potions spilled on the floor, wands broken and pages torn from books. All we've found is some feathers. I just can't think of anyone who would do something like this.'

Morag, 'Thank you Anita. We're now going to hear from key witnesses who claim to have seen or heard things at the time of the incident.'

Bartholomew Chuckles, Head of Security, 'Well I was just closing up the broom closet yesterday- of course they escape if we don't lock them in there at night- and I heard a really weird noise coming from the apothecary. It sounded sort of like... mmmgrgrffffhhbbbrp. Yeah, just like that.'

Bob Goodwimble, Cleaner, 'I was in the staff room making a nice pot of calama-tea when suddenly everything shook. It was as if something heavy had just landed in the shop upstairs. By the time I got up there to check, the place was a mess. I thought I saw something moving in the corner but whatever it was it had completely vanished.'

Morag, 'Well it certainly seems like a mystery. We're going to need our best investigators on this one.'

To find out more, scan the QR below and use the password: Investigates

